

Facing the Pandemic,

CARING FOR OUR COMMUNITY

For Hāna Health and the Hāna community life has not been the same since the COVID-19 pandemic reached our shores. In response, Hāna Health immediately sprang into action to prevent the spread of the highly contagious disease in our small rural community. Knowing that the Hāna population is at greater risk for COVID-19 complications if infected, health center operations were modified to protect the health of community members and our staff.
